

Just before the start of the fall soccer season, there was a ribbon-cutting for the new village ballfield at The Club at Briarcliff Manor. The new, eight-acre field--built for the village as part of the village's approval for the luxury senior living community now under development on the grounds of the former campus of The King's College--allowed for no longer having to rely on use of Clear View School's field, and eased up scheduling for the village's fields at Chilmark Park. Pictured (l.-r.), standing: Briarcliff Manor Village Manager Philip Zegarelli, Westchester County Director of Economic Development Laurence Gottlieb, village Trustee Lori Sullivan, village Mayor William Vescio; Integrated Development Group (IDG) founder and Chief Executive Officer Matt Phillips and Kassie Barnes, Director of Equity Investments for National Real Estate Advisors, the investment arm of the National Electrical Benefit Fund, with which IDG is developing The Club in partnership; and, kneeling, members of the FC Briarcliff youth travel soccer team Kaitlyn Ryan, Maya Sabatier, Gaby Sabatier, Jack Ryan, Camron Fash and Jordan Sabatier.
