

The Club at Briarcliff Manor recently celebrated the first anniversary of its Advisory Board with a dinner meeting at Restaurant 42 in White Plains. Among those attending the event were, from left, seated: Susan Yubas, principal of FilBen Development LLC; Carol Greenberg; president of Concept: CARE, Inc.; Judy Matson, development officer for ArtsWestchester; and Mae Carpenter, commissioner of the Westchester County Department of Senior Programs and Services. Standing, from left: Douglas Ruttenberg, founding partner of the accounting firm of Eisman, Zucker, Klein & Ruttenberg; Bill Beck, vice-president of operations for Club Fit; Shelley Lotter, assistant vice-president of marketing for Integrated Development Group, developer of The Club at Briarcliff Manor; Matt Phillips, founder and chief executive officer of IDG; Kassie Barnes, equity investment officer, National Electrical Benefit Fund; Karen Burris Lennon, senior vice-president for external affairs of Lutheran HealthCare; and William Null, managing partner of the law firm Cuddy & Feder. IDG is developing the $350 million continuous care retirement community (CCRC) in partnership with the National Electrical Benefit Fund, a Washington, D.C.-based pension fund with over $10 billion in assets. Occupancy is projected in 2013.

The Club offers barbecue, tours

The Club At Briarcliff Manor will host its second annual Backyard Barbecue at the site of its planned 325-unit luxury continuous care retirement community (CCRC)—the former campus of The King's College—on Tuesday, July 20 from 2 to 5 p.m.

At 4:30, Mayor William Vescio and fellow members of the Board of Trustees will give an update on the new village ballfield under construction on the site. There will be food and site tours, including tours of one of the townhome residences under construction. RSVP by calling Jill at 923-4050.